When performing electrical work in your home, make sure it meets or exceeds the standards of the National Electric Code.